THIS MATTER is before the Court on Defendant Consumeraffairs.com's Motion to Dismiss or Strike Amended Complaint. Furthermore, the allegations are insufficient to take this matter outside of the protection of the Communications Decency Act. Therefore for the aforementioned reasons and the reasons stated in Defendant's Brief in Support of Motion to Dismiss or Strike Amended Complaint it is hereby ORDERED that Defendant Consumeraffairs.com's Motion to Dismiss or Strike Amended Complaint is GRANTED.

On September 11, 2001, the World Trade Center in New York City was attacked by two hijacked commercial airplanes. The attacks resulted in the deaths of nearly 3,000 people and caused billions of dollars in damage. In the aftermath of the attacks, the federal government launched a comprehensive investigation into the events of September 11. This investigation led to the identification and prosecution of the individuals responsible for the attacks, including the hijackers and those who aided them. The federal government also implemented a series of measures to enhance national security and prevent future attacks, including the creation of the Department of Homeland Security and the passage of the USA PATRIOT Act. The federal government's response to the September 11 attacks has been a subject of ongoing debate and scrutiny. Some have argued that the government's actions were necessary and justified, while others have argued that the government's actions were excessive and violated civil liberties.
